A 6-day flying safari to Ruaha National Park offers an intimate and adventurous escape into one of Tanzania's most pristine wilderness areas. In this southern gem, vast savannahs, rolling hills, and ancient baobab trees create a dramatic backdrop for incredible wildlife encounters.

Your journey begins with a scenic light aircraft flight from Dar es Salaam, Arusha, or Zanzibar. Upon landing, you save hours of road travel and gain more time to explore the park. Over the next five days, morning and afternoon game drives allow you to experience Ruaha's diverse habitats. You will likely see elephants, lions, leopards, cheetahs, and rare African wild dogs.

Additionally, birdwatchers can spot over 570 species across the park.

For a more immersive adventure, guided walking safaris let you explore the bush on foot. During these walks, you track wildlife and discover the smaller details of the ecosystem that often go unnoticed on vehicle safaris. Meanwhile, between excursions, you can relax at the lodge, enjoy gourmet meals, or simply soak up the peaceful surroundings.

Ruaha's remote location ensures fewer vehicles and a deeper connection with nature. As a result, its mix of predators, abundant wildlife, and striking scenery makes every safari moment unforgettable.
