Day 7-8 : Serengeti Plains

Explore the Lamai area- slow down and get away from the crowds and you will witness another side of the Serengeti. Unlike the southern plains of the Serengeti that dry out, forcing all but the hardiest of species to leave, this area remains lush and green. There's a collective sigh of relief from the resident game when the one and a half million migrating wildebeest - and the madness that attends them - leave town for a few months. And the resident game at Lamai Serengeti is spectacular. Why not venture out on foot to explore the winding river lines or rocky outcrops. This is a magical time to explore this part of the Serengeti.
